

Using FIP Log as a Warrior Admin

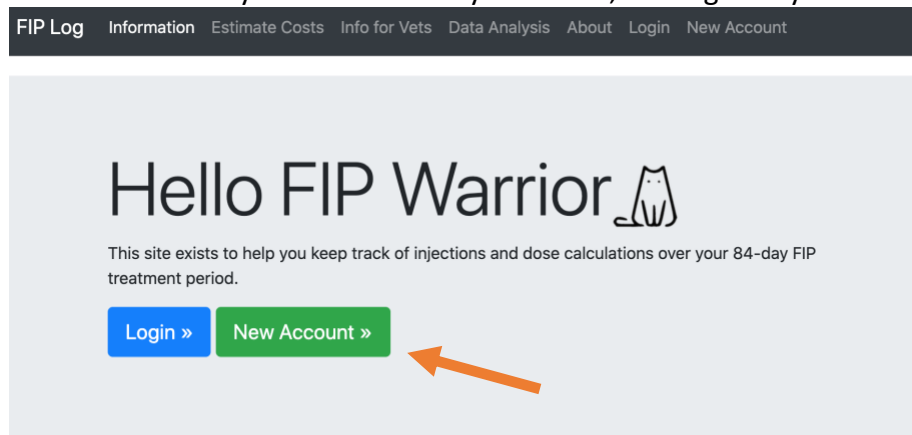

Description: The FIPLog.com website can be used by admins to help track and monitor the kittens. This can help admins better guide treatment decisions, and allow for blood work and other files to be stored and associated with specific cats and parents.

Tracking Other Cats: Getting Started

To start tracking kittens, you need an account on the FIP Log website.

Account Creation

1. Go to <https://fiplog.com>
2. Click “New Account” if you do not already have one, or “Login” if you do.

Your cat's treatment data will be used to help improve the treatment process!

3. Create an account or Login.
 - a. Please make a memorable username – there is not currently functionality to recover usernames if they have been forgotten.
 - b. Please use a valid email address, as this will allow for better error tracking, and to keep you informed of potential updates in the future.

3. To track a cat, you need to have the warrior's 36-digit share link. The parent will be able to retrieve this link from their "Cat Info" page. See discussion below on how to do that.
4. Enter a cat's share link (that the parent gives you), and an identifier that will help you know which parent/cat it is. An example is shown below.
